

A photograph of a wooden desk setup. On the desk, there is a computer monitor displaying a Windows XP desktop with a red floral wallpaper and a small window open. To the left of the monitor is a black keyboard with orange and blue keys. To the right is a black mouse. Below the desk, a black keyboard is visible on a pull-out tray. Underneath the desk, there is a white computer tower and a tangled mess of cables. To the right of the tower is a white corded telephone. On the desk to the right of the mouse is a black and silver electronic device, possibly a clock or a small radio. The background is a solid red wall. A red bounding box is drawn around the upper part of the image, including the wall and the upper part of the desk and cabinets. A green bounding box is drawn around the lower part of the image, including the desk surface, the keyboard tray, and the area below the desk.